

Requisite Technology Releases eCommerce Suite 8.0

Flagship Release Extends Functionality, Delivers Valuable New Features

Chicago, Oct. 24, 2007 - Requisite Technology Inc., a leading provider of channel management, eCommerce and master data management solutions, announced today the release of version 8.0 of eCommerce Suite, their flagship product. The Requisite Technology eCommerce Suite provides an intuitive and highly configurable ecommerce solution that extends shopping cart functionality - enabling enterprises to sell through all channels.

Requisite Technology's eCommerce Suite combines order management, price management, and product information management capabilities within a streamlined and highly configurable solution. Companies using this solution experience reduced costs, increased customer satisfaction, and generate more revenue.

The solution provides a content-rich, centrally-managed product catalog that allows an enterprise to organize and segment data while creating product relationships to support product kits and bundles that capture cross-sell and up-sell opportunities during the ordering process. It offers a strong integration framework connecting on-line commerce and transactions to data residing in legacy systems. eCommerce Suite also provides enterprises the power to fulfill orders from multiple sources.

"We developed the eCommerce Suite with today's complex channel partner ecosystem in mind," said Grace Feliciano, General Manager of Requisite Technology's channel management division. "The eCommerce Suite offers a solution that is tailored to enterprises' specific needs and business environment. It enables the enterprise to extend order visibility across all channels while driving value through improved efficiency and flexibility."
